

THE FOUR C's

COLLEGIALITY

CONFIDENTIALITY

COMMITMENT

CONSEQUENCES FOR INSTRUCTION

Peer Coaching is--- a confidential process through which teachers share their craft knowledge and provide one another with professional feedback, support, and assistance, for the purpose of refining present skills and learning new ones

Pam Robbins, ASDC

Collegiality

- is not congeniality
- needs a supportive structure
- occurs when communication is the norm
- should be intentional, systematized
- is the talking about thinking, and practice, and students
- is of direct benefit to students
- is not a luxury, but essential to good schools
- creates teacher empowerment
- does not necessarily result in a peaceful school
- comes naturally to many but can definitely be learned
- is about shared rather than stated expectations

Judith Warren Little

Peer Coaching

has nothing to do with

Evaluation